Dear guys

There are just a few days left to enter your articles for the Falling In Between Tour Programme competition, which closes on Friday 30 December 2005. This is an exclusive opportunity to get your article published in a glossy tour booklet and win a backstage pass for yourself and a friend. We'll forward the best entries to the band and their tour management for consideration.

Hopefully, the tour programme will include features on the band's gear, a feature on Greg Phillinganes, news about the Toto Network concept and the band's own "track notes" on their memories of writing and recording songs which they'll be performing on this tour. If you don't wish to submit an article but have suggestions as to what you'd like to see included in the tour programme, please let me know.

To find out more about the competition, check out the details here
